DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

1. Claims 27-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claims do not meet the 35 U.S.C. 101 requirements (the claims have improper language regarding the computer readable medium). Please see the USPTO "Interim Guidelines for Examination of Patent Applications for Patent Subject Matter Eligibility" in the Official Gazette notice of 22 November 2005. Note Annex IV Computer-Related Nonstatutory Subject Matter. The Annex states that "computer-readable medium encoded with (stored thereon, embedded with or embodying) a computer program", should be recited in the claim in order to be considered statutory. Linking words such as including, comprising, listing and having, are not acceptable as a substitute term for "encoded with".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 27, 28, and 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Hibi et al. (6275532), (hereinafter referred to as "Hibi").

Regarding claim 27, Hibi discloses an apparatus that relates to a video coding device (Hibi: column 9, lines 10-12). This apparatus comprises "performing an affine motion estimation to obtain affine motion parameters" (Hibi: column 19, lines 55-65), "converting the affine motion parameters to a predetermined number of translational motion vectors" (Hibi: column 19, lines 3-8; column 20, lines 15-20, wherein the bilinear interpolation method performs the converting), and "coding the difference between the converted translational motion vectors of a current block and the converted translational motion vectors of a previous block" (Hibi: column 22, lines 40-50).

Regarding claim 28, note the examiners rejection for claim 27.

Regarding claim 30, Hibi discloses "receiving encoded data" (Hibi: figure 4, wherein the decoder receives the encoded data), "decoding the received data to obtain translational motion vectors" (Hibi: figure 4, item 1142, wherein the motion vector interpolating portion outputs the translational motion vectors), and "converting the translational motion vectors to affine motion parameters and performing motion compensation using the obtained affine parameters" (Hibi: figure 4; column 19, lines 55-65; column 20, lines 21-23; column 28, lines 24-37. The examiner notes the decoder of Hibi will perform the complimentary operations of the corresponding encoder).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claim 29 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hibi et al. (6275532), (hereinafter referred to as "Hibi") in view of Bober (6944227), (hereinafter referred to as "Bober").

Regarding claim 29, note the examiners rejection for claim 28, and in addition, claim 29 differs from claim 28 in that claim 29 further requires quantizing the vectors to fixed point numbers. Bober teaches that it is well known to quantize motion vectors to either full or sub-pel accuracy and differentially encode the result (Bober: column 1, lines 20-24). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to implement the quantization taught by Bober in order to send large amounts of data over limited bandwidth networks.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure:

US-5886742	03-1999	Hibi et al.
